Come learn how you can enhance your prevention activities by introducing service-learning to your toolbox!

“Get Started with Service-Learning” is a one-day, no-cost training that will be offered by KIDS Consortium (a nationally recognized service-learning organization based in Maine).

- December 8th, 2011 in Colchester, VT

The training will provide an overview of service-learning. By the end of the day, participants will:

- Understand the difference between the KIDS model of service-learning and other community-oriented educational experiences
- Know about a variety of service-learning projects and see the benefits of service-learning
- Be able to plan a high quality service-learning project using the KIDS model
- Understand the importance of community partnership(s), student ownership, and connections to learning objectives that define KIDS service-learning projects

What is Service-Learning?

In the words of Learn & Serve America, service-learning is: “...a teaching and learning strategy that integrates meaningful community service with instruction and reflection to enrich the learning experience, teach civic responsibility, and strengthen communities.”
