Child Nutrition Programs

Site Eligibility List for use in the After School Snack Program 2007-08*

The After School Snack Program is designed to give children a nutritional boost and draw them into after-school activities that are safe, fun, and educational. School Food Authorities that participate in the National School Lunch Program and offer after-school care programs with educational and enrichment activities in a structured and supervised environment are eligible to participate and receive reimbursement for snacks served.

The information in this report shows all the schools in Vermont that had at least 50% of student enrollment eligible for free or reduced price school meals (based on October 31, 2006 eligibility data on file with the Vermont Department of Education, Child Nutrition Programs). One use for this data is to determine site or area eligibility for After School Snack programs started between February 1, 2007 and February 1, 2008. (For more information on use of this data for the After School Snack Program, see the material at the bottom of this page.) Any school on the “50% List” (Site Eligibility List) qualifies either the school building as an eligible site or a specific geographic area as an eligible area for the After School Snack Program.

1. Individual schools on the “50% list” that serve all students in a community or are neighborhood schools that serve students within a specified attendance area can operate area eligible programs anywhere in the community or attendance area served by the school.
2. Any school on the “50% list” that (1) is one of several schools in a community; (2) is not a neighborhood school; (3) does not serve all students in a particular grade range in a community; or (4) draws students from several towns (such as a Union High School) can operate a site eligible program located at that school building. If a Program is operated in a location other than the school, reimbursement must be claimed by free, reduced, and paid categories.

All students participating in area eligible or site eligible After School Snack Programs is eligible to receive the snack free of charge, regardless of individual eligibility, and the school will receive free reimbursement for each snack served to these students. Schools not in this document can receive reimbursement at the free, reduced price, and full-price rates for snacks based on individual student eligibility. Reimbursement rates are published each year in July.

The following list is arranged by School Food Authority (SFA). To see if your school is on the list, first look for your school food authority, then check the eligible schools listed with the appropriate SFA. This data will tell you towns/cities/neighborhoods that are area eligible, as well as schools that are site eligible.

*The percentages in the following list apply to any Program in operation prior to February 1, 2008 and continue to be valid through the end of the school year. Beginning with the school year 2008-09, eligibility data published in February 2008 will apply. Any new Program starting after February 1, 2007, must use this eligibility data. Programs sponsored by schools that were not on last year’s list, but appear on this list, may start claiming all snacks as “free” beginning with the February 2007 Claim for Reimbursement. Schools that were on last years list, but do not appear on this list may continue to claim based on last year’s data through the end of this school year. However, beginning with the 2007-08 school year, the data in this list (February 2007) must be used.
