2018-2019 National Youth Science Camp Award

Deadline: February 28, 2019

National Youth Science Camp Award

The National Youth Science Camp (NYSCamp) honors graduating seniors who have demonstrated academic excellence in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics. The NYSCamp is organized and operated by the National Youth Science Foundation (NYSF) and participants attend free of charge - transportation included. Two students will be selected to represent Vermont at the 2019 NYSCamp to be held in West Virginia. The application and additional information can be found on the NYSCamp Application Website. Deadline for students to apply is February 28, 2019.

The National Youth Science Camp

- Inspires lifelong engagement and ethical leadership in science, technology, engineering, mathematics, and related fields among delegates, who possess recognized high potential for follow-through and success.
- Provides engaged learning opportunities in science, technology, engineering, mathematics, and related professions that extend and enhance the traditional K-12 school curriculum.
- Develops a robust network among delegates, members of the program staff, and science, technology, engineering, and mathematics professionals reinforced through community and shared experiences.
- Encourages participants to pursue careers in science, technology, engineering, mathematics, and related professions through an increased awareness and understanding of current education, research, and career opportunities.
- Creates a safe environment for expanding delegates' comfort zones with scientific and cultural aspects of the natural world through outdoor adventure activities.
