

VTEd Learns Project Update Oct. 27, 2020: Account Creation for Educators

Local and Statewide Collaboration Powered by Edmodo

As you may know, the AOE has partnered with Edmodo to power our statewide professional learning platform, VTEd Learns Network. This platform provides an online space for educators in Vermont for peer learning, networking communities and information sharing -- all of which can happen within schools, within supervisory unions and districts, or statewide.

Locally, each SU/SD and approved independent school has been provided its own secure space for local collaboration and online teaching. Statewide, VTEd Learns Network supports virtual spaces for collaboration between educators across SU/SDs -- removing geographic, financial or health barriers posed by in-person gatherings.

Creating Your Account

Over the summer, Edmodo and the AOE worked to establish accounts for Superintendents, Principals, Curriculum Directors and Directors of Technology so they could explore the tool and establish their local spaces. SU/SD leadership ultimately will determine whether and how they construct their local learning community spaces (see our July 6, 2020 Edmodo update) and determine how they proceed with account creation.

To support statewide professional learning communities, any educators who do not yet have accounts and want to begin collaborating with colleagues now, should please complete this request form. If you have questions about your existing account, please email PrioritySupport@edmodo.com.

Edmodo and You

Don't miss out on one of our first training opportunities at Vermont Fest 2020. Existing, new and future users can join the VTEd Learns Network workshop to learn how to leverage Edmodo for professional learning and collaboration.

As the VTEd Learns space grows we will continue to provide updates. Until then you can get more information by visiting the AOE Edmodo web page or Edmodo's informational pages for teachers or schools.
